A Mob at First Attempted to Tear Down a "Speak Easy."

This Being too Slow, They Applied a Torch -It is Said Four of the Inmates Were Unable to Reach the Street and Were Burned to Death.

SISTERVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 24.-Intelligence has just reached here of a calamity in the interior of the county by which several persons are reported to have lost their lives and a number were injured. In the oil fields there has been a disorderly house and "Speak Easy" running and the neighbors decided to get rid of the objectionable characters. The mob at first attempted to tear down the house, but as this was slow work a torch was applied. The inmates made no attempt to get out while the crowd was tearing down the building, and it is said four of them were unable to reach the street after the place was set on fire.

Those reported burned to death in the fire are:

Stella Woods, of Pittsburgh. Anna Johnson, of Columbus. John Jackson, of Pennsylvania. Frank Stewart, of Indiana.

The men were workers in the oil fields, and at the time of the fire were sleeping in their room over the speak

The names of the persons who were seriously burned in their endeavor to escape from the buildings can not be learned, but it is known that there were five or six of them.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 25 .- "The Ohio will continue rising Wednesday and Thursday," said Observer Bassler, Wednesday morning.

"It will reach the 60-foot stage Thursday, but will not go much beyond." The tributaries of the Ohio are all falling except at their mouths. The Ohio will keep rising at Cincinnati until the water brought down by them shall have passed this point.

The lower portion of Newport is being gradually submerged by the waters from the Ohio and Licking rivers. Newport bridge has been suspended,

The loss of life in the flood in the Ohio valley has reached a score and three. The loss of property is tremendous. Thus far only the most imperfect attempts have been made to estimate the damage done to business interests by the torrent. West Virginia reports at Wheeling indicate a loss of $600,000 in that state. Lumber and oil interests suffered there, as well as the railways. It seems safe to estimate the loss in Ohio as half that in West Virginia; in Portsmouth and the surrounding country alone the damage is $75,000. A tabulated statement of Late Wednesday night, the river was rising at the rate of one and one-half inch an hour, and it is expected to reach, but not pass, the 60-foot stage by Thursday night.

The limit of the flood is placed at 60 feet by river men, and they believe that the rise from Pittsburgh will not have much effect when it reaches here on account of the vast expanse over which the river now extends.

Thursday morning was 59.1. LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., Feb. 25.-Tuesday night was one of anxiety in Lawrenceburg. Of all towns along the Ohio a big flood causes the greatest apprehension in this place. In the famous flood of 1884 the city and its 5,000 people were submerged. The current of the river ran through High street, the principal business thoroughfare, where boats anchored at second-story windows. Sixty or 70 houses were completely submerged. Both the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers are falling. The former now is showing a depth of about twenty-nine feet. The absence of heavy ice and driftwood makes the loss to shipping less than it might have been.

The Story That Col. McCook Can Not Accept the Secretary of the Interior Portfolio.

CANTON, O., Feb. 25.-Mark Hanna returned to Cleveland Wednesday afternoon and will not see Maj. McKinley again till he meets him in Washington on Tuesday next. ## A WOMAN'S BODY.

What Its Neglect Leads to. Mrs. Chas. King's Experience.

A woman's body is the repository of the most delicate mechanism in the whole realm of creation, and yet most women will let it get out of order and keep out of order, just as if it were of no consequence. Their backs ache and heads throb and burn; they have wandering pains, now here and now there. They experience extreme lassitude. that don't-care and want-to-be-left-alone feeling. excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness and the blues, yet they will go about their work until they can scarcely stand on their poor swollen feet, and do nothing to help themselves. These are the positive fore-runners of serious womb complications, and unless given immediate attention will result in untold misery, if not death. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will, beyond the question of a doubt, relieve all this trouble before it becomes serious, and it has cured many after their troubles had become chronic.

The Compound should be taken immediately upon the appearance of any of these symptoms above enumerated. It is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and stimulates the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the case of any sick woman as it did with Mrs. Chas. King, 1815 Rosewood St., Philadelphia, Pa., whose letter we attach:

"I write these few lines, thanking you for restoring my health. For twelve years I suffered with pains impossible to describe. I had bearing-down feelings, backache, burning sensation in my stomach, chills, headache, and always had black specks before my eyes. I was afraid to stay alone, for I sometimes had four and five fainting spells a day. I had several doctors and tried many patent medicines. Two years ago I was so bad that I had to go to bed and have a trained nurse. Through her, I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I never had anything give me the relief that it has, I have taken eight bottles, and am now enjoying the best of health again. I can truthfully say it has cured me."

Squire Hill entered the house, and with his wife and daughter was seated at the supper table when Clarence came in. His hunting suit presented a very disorderly appearance, and his slouched bat was more slouched than usual.

"Where in heaven's name have you been, son?" asked his mother.

"At the bottom of Orton creek, mother, where old Uncle Jobe lies now-but I will change my clothes and tell you all about it."

"Uncle Jobe in the bottom of Orton creek!" exclaimed Mrs. Hill and Clara. "Poor soul," and tears came to their eyes.

"I'll never fish in Orton creek again," said Clara, "I'll have no one to take the fish from the hook; poor faithful Uncle

Clarence was soon seated at the table. "How did it happen, son?"

"Well, we took a bateau from the mill, and I fished along up the creek. Uncle Jobe was sitting in the stern paddling-we kept moving further and further up, and I had some fine fish in the bottom of the boat, and was just thinking of turning back for home, when, as we rounded a bend in the creek, I saw just ahead of me lying on the bank an alligator-a larger one I have never seen in the creek-and I was surprised to see him there in February, but having had no cold weather this winter, I s they've stayed out of their holes; I raised my gun instanter and firedthe 'gator slumped off into the creek, and raised under the bow of the bateau, giving his powerful tail a swing, that splintered its side and overturned it.

"I heard one yell from Uncle Jobe as we both fell into the creek; it is very deep just there, with a mud bottom; but gun in hand I managed to paddle to the bank, get hold of a cypress root, and pull myself out. I dropped my gun, and turned back to attempt to save Uncle Jobe. The cypress are very dense there, their limbs overhanging and meeting from the opposite banks of the stream, and they hanging festooned with moss; I could scarcely see across I called aloud several the stream.

"'Jobe! Jobe!' but there was no answer: I could neither hear nor see any sign of him, nor could I see anything of the bateau; I stood there waiting wringing wet for some time, and then concluded that Uncle Jobe had found a watery grave-and through the Cyprus swamp, stumbling over knees and to reach home-minus fish, minus fishing tackle, minus poor old Uncle Jobe. When I got home my clothes were dry."

"Poor Dinah," said his mother; "have you told her?"

"Yes, I went there first of all, and when I told her, she said: 'I tell dat boy fer de pas' forty years: "Look out, Brer' Jobe! 'gator git you," an' now 'gator dun got him, suah nuft.' "'I will take men and go drag for his

"Yes," said the squire, "I guess there would be rather too much of him for one, unless it was a very large 'gator, as Clarence says this was; but there's plenty of 'gators Jobe wouldn't make mouthful each for them."

"Ain't you ashamed of yourself, Ab-

"Yes, wife, I am; but I couldn't help it. I would be willing to give a thousand dollars to undo his drowning and bring him back, but it's too late; now as to Jobe's life of toil, you forget that he was my father's body servant when I was a boy. He has always had an easy time with me. Why, look at his age, and he was scarcely bent, but stood erect at seventy-something unusual for a negro."

That evening Clara Hill and her mother took a walk over to Aunt Dinah's cabin; as they neared the open door they saw many dusky figures seated about on benches in the cakin and heard Luke, the negro preacher of the plantation, say:

"Sis' Dinah, you no 'cashun fer mourn, 'case Brer' Jobe is gone right inter Heaven. I tell yer, chile, he's gone right inter Heaven."

"I speck he is, Brer' Luke; but I'se skeared he gone inter a 'gator as well. Boo hoo! to tink dat my onles bruder go dat wav."

CHAPTER II.

"HONEY, DA AIN'T COTCH YOU." Early the next morning Clarence,

Moses and Solomon, in one bateau, and Uncle Bob, a famous boatman, with Luke, in another, started from the landing. As they rounded the point near the scene of the recent fatality, the first object that met their gaze was the old bateau, splintered and bottom up, drifting slowly down the stream, and the next object was that identical alligator lying in exactly the same place on the

Clarence raised his rifle, threw its muzzle within ten feet of the 'gator's head and fired. The bullet passed through the saurian's eye and entered his brain. He gave a spasmodic struggle, his tail swept half a circle and he

They hastily scrambled ashore, and Bob and Moses turned him over, and straightened him out; he was nearly 12 feet long.

"For' God," said Moses, suddenly; 'dar Brer' Jobe now."

"Where! Where!" said Clarence. "Why, dar, master, dar-see how him lie! jus' like a man," and Moses pointed to a ridge that seemed to extend down the 'gator's stomach. "Yes, dar Brer' Jobe, suah nuff," said Bob, "pore Brer' Jobe."

"But didn't you hear me call, Uncle Jobe?" said Clarence.

The boats returned, the negroes singing their plantation melodies as they glided down the stream, and Uncle Jobe joining in the chorus like any thing but a dead darky.

Arrived at the landing, with Clarence in the lead, they marched up the lane nor halted till they reached the cabin of Dinah; she was at the Manor house. washing.

As they rounded the corner of the house, there she stood on the back piazza, half bent over a wash tub, her red bandana tied around her head, her sleeves well above the elbows, scrubbing away on the washboard, and big tears chasing each other down her black face.

Mrs. Hill stepped out on the piazze, and said: "Dinah, I told you you need not work to-day, poor soul; I am sorry for you."

"I know you is, mistis; I know you is, but I bleeged to work-it help me forgit 'bout Brer' Jobe. I can't stay home, and he ain't dar." "No, but here he! honey, here he!"

CHAPTER III.

"YOUR MOTHER, CHILD, HAS ROMANTIC NOTIONS."

When the ensuing Sunday arrived, it brought with it on the Sanshine, at ten o'clock, John Loyd and his daughter and nephew.

Clarence met them at the landing with the family carriage, and they were soon ascending the steps of the piazza, where they were met by the planter and his daughter. "Welcome to Orton, John Loyd! wel-

He little knew Clara Hill.

She knew him intuitively for what

Clara turned and gave her hand to Mr. Loyd, after which the two girls disappeared into the house, and Squire Hill and Mr. Loyd started for a ramble over the grounds, leaving the young men to kill time as best suited themselves, until dinner.

They lighted their eigars, and strolled over to the stables to inspect

As they were passing down a space between two rows of stails, Herbert, pointing to a magnificent bay, ex isimed: "What a beauty!"

"Yes, he has beauty; but the beauty of his mistress is beyond compare." "Why, Herbert, do you think Clara ocautiful?

"Indeed I do: I have long thought so; I love your sister, Clarence. Do you think that I could win her?"

"I can't tell, Herbert, you can surely try; you have known her long enough. As for me, I intend to know my fate before you go back to town. I shall muster up courage and ask Fannie to be my wife."

Now, if I could find one who would be a comfort to me, and a companion to my daughter, and would wed a man of my years, not alone for wealth, I would gladly make her my wife. #### NEEDED. THEREFORE GOOD. English Diplomats Have Borrowed "Thalweg" from the German. A great deal of discussion has been excited by the recent use of the German word "thalweg," and objection has been taken to its introduction into diplomatic phraseology. But it is by no means a new-comer in international agreement, although its exact meaning does not appear to be very clearly

It has been translated as "river valley," and generally an impression seems to have gained ground that it signifies the drainage area of a river. Herbert Lathrop took it for a flush | What it does, in fact, signify is the middle line of a river, and as water tends naturally to the lowest available level, a river flowing through a valley may be taken as the dividing line of the valley. An imaginary line drawn down the center of the river is, therefore, supposed to mark the boundary between two states, each owning one side of the valley, and this imaginary line is known as the "thalweg."

As an example of its previous use in international agreements, the case may be quoted of the protocol signed in Brussels in April, 1887, defining the boundaries between the French Congo colony and the Congo Free State. By that instrument it was provided that the Congo Free State was not to exercise any political influence on the right bank of the Oubanghi river, nor France on the left bank, "the thalweg forming in both cases the separation.'

This imaginary line exactly corresponds to what in English law is known as "the middle thread of the stream," the rights of an owner of property situate on the banks of a river extending, in the old Latin phrase, "ad medium filum aquea;" but we have, unfortunately, no single word which expresses this idea, and since the Germans have, there is no apparent reason why it should not be employed. -Edinburg Scotsman.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.-SENATE-The bil to extend the use of the mails was passed Thursday. The senate also passed without amendment house bill for the admisssion of needlework imported by the New York Association of Sewing Schools for exhibition purposes. The senate had spent only 20 minutes in executive session, when on motion of Senator Sherman (rep., 0) the galleries were cleared, the doors closed and the consideration of executive business entered upon. At 6:35 p. m. the senate adjourned until Friday.

House-In the contested case of Hopkins, rep , vs. Kendall, dem., from the Nineteenth Kentucky district, the house Thursday for the first time this session, on a direct issue of fact, reversed the decision of its committee on elections and seated a contestant whom the committee had declared not elected. In the contested election case of Rinaker and Downing from first Illinois district Rinaker was seated The rest of the session was given up to the passage of bills by consent which led the leader to consent to a speedy adjournment and at 43:0 the house adjourned till Friday.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. - SENATE-When the senate adjourned at 8 o'clock Friday night after a secret session of seven and a half hours, it was apparent to the most sanguine friends of the general treaty of arbitration with Great Britain that no vote could be secured at this session of the senate. The fact that a motion to postpone until M rch 5 had been defeated by a vote of 30 to 20 afforded no satisfaction. On the contrary it emphasized the fact that their fighting the treaty intended there should be affirmative action of House-Another appropriation bill was taken up, but little progress made. measure was that carrying appropriations to supply deficiencies for the current fiscal year and prior years. It encountered its first snag when Mr. Grow, (rep. Pa) insisted that he had a right to speak as long as he wanted to on it. This proposition was discussed for some time, and resulted in a victory for the venerable Pennsylvania member who devoted some extended remarks, not to the appropriation bill, but to the Oklahoma free homestead measure. Then a long discussion was started by Mr. Richardson (dem., Tenn.) over an item to pay special attorneys for defending suits against the United States. Mr. Richardson wanted to know the use of paying attorneys to defend such cases when the judgments given against the United States, particularly claims under the Bowman act, were never paid. Many members spoke with regard to the propriety of paying the Bowman claims, but when the afternoon was nearly over the discusssion was dropped. The bill was not passed at 5 o'clock when the senate Tuesda, a resolution was offered by Mr. Mills (dem., Tex.) and was agreed to requesting the president to furnish a statement of the facts concerning the arrest, imprisonment and death of Dr. Ricardo Ruiz in a Cuban jail Practically the entire day was consumed in the discussion of an amendment in the Indian appropriation bill for the opening reservation in Utah, containing over 2,000,000 House-Senate bills were passed granting a pension to the widow of the late Gen. Thos.

L. Casey, corps of engineers, with an amendment reducing the amount from $75 to $50 per month: also authorizing the Montgomery, Hayneville and Camden Railway to build a bridge across the Alabama river, between Lower Peach Tree and Mary Bluff. The house late Tuesday afternoon ran unexpectedly into an interesting and possibly significant discussion of the civil service law. It came out by the consideration of a bill to amend the revised statutes so as to give the governors of territories the power to remove as well as to appoint certain territorial officers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. - SENATE-The proceedings in the senate Wednesday were full of interest from the opening to the close. No less than three propositions were made in relation to Cuba-one by Senator Allen (pop., Neb.), one by Senator Hill and one by Senator Morgan, as the unanimous report of the committee on foreign relations. It is in the form of a joint resolution demanding immediate and unconditional release of Julio Sanguilly, and compensation from Spain for from the dome of the capital and Chap- his imprisonment and sufferings. Mr. Morgan lain Couden, in an eloquent prayer, gave notice, and was backed by the chairman of the committee on foreign relations. Mr. Sherman, that action on the relations would be asked Thursday. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up and two or three of the committee amendments to it provoked long and rather angry discussion.

> House-The appearance of William Jennings Bryan, the democratic candidate for president last fall, upon the floor of the house was the most noticeable event of Wednesday's session. He has the entree of the floor as an ex-member and came into the hall at 4:30 o'clock, about an hour ofter his arrival in plause from many members, a few of whom gave vocal expression to their pleasure. From his old seat he responded to the greetings of his friends and acquaintand disposition of business relating to the District of Columbia. The most important measure passed was the senate bill making

When the Fiftyfirst Congress laid out $86,580 on contested election cases. it broke the record up to that time, but the Fifty-fourth Congress has gone far beyond it. The contested election cases before the present Congress have cost the public treasury $124,861.82.

THE Cuban question came to the front again in the Senate Wednesday when three resolutions bearing on Cuban affairs were offered. One, calling for the immediate release of Julio Sanguilly, came from the Committee on Foreign Relations. Another calls on the President to send war ships to Cuba for the protection of American citizens, and the third calls for the correspondence with Consul General Lee relative to Americans imprisoned in Cuba.

THE report that Consul General Lee has resigned because the United States Government had not granted his request for authority to demand the release of American citizens, and for war-ships to back up the demand, is officially and positively denied. The report caused much excitement in Washington, where feeling over the Cuban question is reaching such a point that it is not believed a crisis can be much longer delayed. Representative Gibson has introduced a resolution directing the President to demand the immediate release of every American citizen now imprisoned in Cuba, and to send war ships to Havana and other ports with orders to bombard them if the demand is not complied with within twenty-four hours. Suspected Toll-Gate Raiders Captured.

To Bourbon and Scott belong the distinction of being the only counties in Kentucky where toll-gate raiders have been apprehended.

Wednesday morning Chief of Police Zach Lusby, of Georgetown, brought to this city for trial Will Wright and George Anderson, two negro men who are charged with having set fire to a day. toll-house in this county on the Leesburg and Newtown pike. The negroes live on the farm of Mr. Lun Ferguson, who owns the above mentioned pike.

The evidence is said to be strong against Wright and Anderson. Coal oil was thrown on the toll-house about one o'clock Sunday morning, and gatekeeper G. W. Jones and family narrowly escaped burning to death. Wright and Anderson were arrested Monday on Mr. Ferguson's place by Mr. Lusby and are now in the Paris jail. Their trial will occur this morning before 'Squire Lilleston.

This is the first turnpike disturbance to occur in Bourbon county, and it is likely that the perpetrators of it will be severely punished.

All her love that was not her son's was buried in his father's grave, and she never put of the soft grays, purples and neutral tints of second mourning.

"When you are married, Claire, I will buy one pink rose in honor of the occasion," she would say. But at 25 Clarence had never given her occasion to think of the pink rose.

I have said he was spoiled, and in a certain sense he was. Without any vicious tendencies, he lacked the ambition and energy that are the attribute of a true, manly nature. Tall, strong, in perfect health, handsome as a young Apollo, he was content to dawdle through life, spending his ample income upon dress, jewelry, opera tickets, a well-appointed equipage, and the means of a lazy, useless existence. And his mother, proud of his beauty, his polished courtesy of manner, his devotion to herself, asked no more.

But she was a truly loving woman, and when Clarence was 25 was willing to concede her throne in his affections to a younger, stronger love, the love that would brighten her son's life with home happiness when her scepter was in the coffin.

And half proudly, half regretfully she recognized the fact that the ideal of womanhood he had founded upon her example made him far too fastidious in his intercourse with the girls of modern society. A loud voice annoyed him. A brusque manner disgusted him.

"When I find a young lady as gentle. refined and lovely as yourself, madre mia," he would say, "I will move heaven and earth to win her. Until then, let me enjoy my liberty." It was in the late spring, and Mrs. Parker was preparing for her annual removal to her country seat at Chestnut Hill, when a letter reached her from her cousin and life-long friend in Ohio, begging her to take charge of his only daughter for a few months, while he was absent upon a trip to the far west. The Page Wire Fence In Bourbon.

MILLERSBURG, KY., May 4, '96. MESSRS. MILLER & COLLINS. Agents, Paris, Kentucky.

Gentlemen: -I have had the Page Woven Wire Fence on my farm for about eighteen months and am well pleased with it. It has proved to be all that is claimed for it. It turns all kinds of stock and is as tight as it was the day it was put up and has stood some severe tests. A horse of one of my neighbors fell across the fence a few months ago and was not taken off for several hours but when taken off the fence went back to its place all right with the exception of a few staples. During the storm of April 24th a good-sized tree was blown across the fence and bent it down to the ground. As soon as the tree was cast off the fence went up all right and was as good as ever with the exception of one broken wire and a few staples out

I am so well pleased with the fence that I am going to put up more of it Respectfully, right away. WM. BECRAFT. (5my-tf)

THE FARMING WORLD.

PRODUCTION OF MUTTON. The Profit Comes from Doing It Quickly, and No Other Source. At a state institute held in Columbus, O., a paper was read by H. P. Miller, in which he said:

"There is a limited period in the life points toward earlier marketing. To eight-weeks-old lamb, if in condition and in 'season,' commands the highest price per pound ever attainable. A very narrow limit of time at this period and the height of the tide in prices passes. A lamb not meeting the requirements of the market at that period must pass on into a cheaper class, not to find sale until another 'season' opens which calls for a lamb three or five months old, but at a less price per pound.

"The lambs sold at four months old do not, as a rule, bring as much as those sold at two months old. If, again, the age is doubled or tripled the market into which they must go is such that in spite of their gain in size they will bring little if any more per head than at either of the former prices. This may be continued until we have the sheep at its maximum weight, and this that has not found general application in the growing of mutton. The lesson is not, however, that all mutton should be marketed in the form of eight-weeks-old lambs. Not all the sheep-raisers are rightly situated respecting market or equipped in skill ing this class of mutton. But this when grown under the most economical conditions for meeting a certain market for choice form the larger will be the profit. To illustrate again by my neighbor's hogs: He 'feeds them along' through one winter, past a June market, and he says that if I were to raise pork I would never go into the hog business; I should go into the pig busiwhat men must do who find that sheep don't pay. Quit raising sheep and go to raising lambs."

Mr. Elbridge Waterman is a well-known railroad engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railway, who has been a great sufferer from nervous debility of an aggravated kind for the past ten years. The strain was telling on his nerves terribly, and steady work was impossible. The following is his story:

> "For the past ten years," he said, "I have suffered as few men have, with nervousness, heart trouble and rheumatism. I have lived on the footboard most of my life, and the constant jolting and nervous strain slowly but surely undermined my constitution. I was forced to quit work, and there remedy that I could find, but none of them did me any good. I consulted doctors all over the country, but to no avail. I would would have to quit work. The money manent good, would place me now out of want, and in comparative affluence, if I had it. An idea of how much time and money lost may be gained when I tell you that during last summer alone, I was totally unable to work four months on a stretch, and was much of the time confined to the house, and to the bed, sometimes unable to move. It makes me cold all over when I look back on what I have gone through.

"But rheumatism was not the only thing I suffered from. My heart troubled me very a matter of daily-increasing impor- much, and I was totally unable to sleep for days and weeks at a time. When I would drop off into a doze, my heart would beat itself almost out of my bosom, and would boundaries for parts of the world con- wake me up as though I had been struck by sidered in a geographical instead of a a trip hammer. I had twitchings in my arms and legs, and was altogether in such a political sense. What is the geograph- condition that my wife and friends began to ical, the so-called natural, division be consider me beyond reach of medical as-casus range, and still another, that it was not a faked up one, and I determined to give this medicine a fair trial. I was unable to work at the time, and almost in despair. So I went to the drug store and volkerung der Erde," which deals with | bought six boxes of them, in order to give them a thorough test, and in a few days I began to feel the improvement they were working in my system. In two weeks I was able to go to work, and I have worked ever since without a lay off, which is something I have not done for years.

"The first improvement I noticed was in my heart, which grew more and more nortinguished writers recognize only mal in its action, until at last it did not trouble me at all, and I was able to sleep as I had not been able for ten years. The heart trouble has never returned, and my sleep visions of the land surface the number for the past two months has been healthy and deep. Last night I went to bed early and slept soundly until eight o'clock this morning. And now, when I wake up, I feel respect is this a matter of much impor- invigorated and ready for the day's work, just as I used to feel when I was a boy.

"The nervous twitchings were also cured in a short time, and have never returned or bothered me in the least since. This has also been a great relief to me, as the twitchings were very annoying, as well as an indication to everyone of the terrible condition much confusion in books and atlases in which my state of health was. And the with regard to the names and extent greatest wonder of all is that the rheumatism seems to be cured also, and does not bother me in the least any more, except when I exgraphical society of London appointed pose myself unduly, and even then only for a short time. I consider myself a well man now, and hope to continue so. I am still taking Pink Pills, for I want the cure to be a complete and permanent one. I only wish I had known them years ago, for I would proved advantageous. There is much have saved myself large sums of money as well as suffering for which no money could

IT CANNOT BE.

The dying lips of a dear friend At parting spoke to me, Saying: "Wheresoe'er your path may trend There ever I shall be.

"Go walk where over Egypt's sand The burning simooms blow, Or in Alaska's sunless land, Your wake my wing shall know.

"When winter's nights are long and dark, I'll lead you by the hand, And when the waves beat on your bark Will beacon you to land."

PLACE NAMES.

Some Odd and Curious Names of Places In Massachusetts.

In the Middlesex fells some good old colonial names are preserved, like Jinglejerry hill and Shillyshally brook. Spot pond was named by Governor Winthrop, who discovered it in the winter, because of the many rocks that showed through the ice and spotted the surface. Powderhorn hill in Chelsea is said to have been bought from the Indians for a hornful of powder.

The fact of misfortune to divers unknown persons-whether trivial or great does not appear-finds a record in Bad Luck brook and swamp in Rehoboth, Bad Luck mountain in Granville and Bad Luck pond in Douglas. There may be some association between Burncoat brook and pond in Leicester and Spencer and Burnshirt river, likewise in Worcester county.

Drinkwater river is a felicitous name for a stream of good water. It is in Hanover, and possibly there may have been a family of that name in the neighborhood. Strong Water brook in Tewksbury has quite different associations. Sought For pond, in Westford, suggests a long and baffled quest for the spot through the wilderness in the olden days. One of the least euphonious of names is Skug river in Essex and Middlesex counties. It is worthy a place among such English names as Wormwood Scrubs, a park in London.

The legend about the names of the group of islands on the south coast presents an instance of how fancied resemblances give rise to stories. It is related that these islands once belonged to a man with four daughters. To Nancy, the oldest, the father gave the first choice, and the fact that "Nan took it" is recorded in the name of Nantucket, the island she selected. Nantucket, of course, is in reality an Indian name. Martha's Vineyard and the Elizabeth islands went to Martha and Elizabeth, respectively, while for the fourth daughter, whose name has been lost to memory, there was nothing left but the most remote and undesirable of the group, which was called No Man's Land, because its owner was a woman. The Elizabeth islands, in fact, were named for Queen Elizabeth by Bartholomew Gosnold, their discoverer, whose name has been given to the town that comprises them. - Boston Transcript.

Mailing Candy Abroad.

A young man who apparently knows a girl in London came into the office the other day and asked whether candy could be sent abroad through the mails. So he was taken over to the postoffice and the state of affairs was laid before an official, who instigated an investigation. After a long time he returned and torney, HARMON STITT. reported as follows:

"I am very glad," said he, "that you asked that question. Its answer shows a curious state of affairs. In this country you can send candy up to 4 pounds as merchandise for 1 cent for each ounce. If you want to send candy abroad you only have to pay 1 cent for every 2 ounces, but you can only send 12 ounces in each package. If it weighs more than 12 ounces you have to pay letter rates, or 10 cents an ounce for the whole thing.

"That is to say, you can send 10 ounces to London for 5 cents, but it would cost you 10 cents to send it to Brooklyn. So if you are thinking of sending a pound it will cost you $1.60. The stamp department is right over there."

"Thank you very much," said the young man. "I just happen to rememand Express.

Foiled.

Senator Wilson of Washington and his brother, Harry Wilson, look very much alike. One day in Spokane, where the two brothers live, Senator Wilson, who had just returned from his legislative duties, was stopped on the street by a man who had known him for years. "Harry," said the man, "when will your brother John be here?" "In a day or two," said John without a smile. "Tell him I want to see him on an important matter." "Certainly," said John. "And you will not forget it?"

"I'll try not," promised John, and thus another office seeker was foiled .-Washington Post.

Mrs. Hearst's Motive.

Mrs. Phœbe Hearst of California has given $200,000 to found a mining school at Berkeley as a memorial to her husband. She gives largely to the free kindergartens, supports several college settlements and contributed $1,000 to the recent campaign for the woman suffrage amendment. She has also given $200,-000 to establish a fine gymnasium for girls at the state university. She said to Miss Anthony, "I am doing all this to make girls fit to vote."
